

A real teacher...

Everybody student would like to see ideal teacher in his or her school. Students want that teachers were very kind, cool and putting only excellent marks. But in our schools basically cruel and evil teachers, but they're equitable.

I think that ideal teacher should be kind in moderation, sometimes angry, because of the failure homework. Teacher should be funny, maybe, that students want to go on his or her lessons. Teacher have to know his or her subject very well. Of course, teacher have to equitable with students, because they should know that teacher evaluate real knowledge his or her students. Teachers necessarily must love children and able work with them.

Same I think that teachers have they private opinion: students have to obey each request and comply with all required pigtails, no manicure, indoor shoes, I agree with this, but we can't have our opinion, we can't counter these rules. I think we can find compromises and avoid scandals with teachers and school director.

In conclusions, we note that the views about education of students and teachers are very different and we must, I repeat, to find compromises. We must understand teachers, and teachers must understand us.
